I am writing this article in the last days of Sukkot when the thoughts and prayers of the Jewish people turn to rain and water. On Hoshana Rabba we make seven revolutions around the synagogue holding our lulavim and ask God to sustain us. The following day, the Hazzan wears a white robe on Shmini Atzeret and offers the prayer for rain. Our thoughts turn to the land of Israel at a time of year when farmers would naturally look to the coming winter months with trepidation.

Without the winter rains there was fear of droughts and famine. As we approach the 70th anniversary of the modern State of Israel, we can look at what Israel has accomplished in that time period. Rather than fear and foreboding, Jews around the world chant these prayers with a sense of pride. Today Israel leads the world in water technology. Drip irrigation has revolutionized farming in that only the water that is needed for crops will be used. Along with technological advances in water desalination and wastewater reclamation, Israel is now water self-sufficient since the time of Abraham and Sarah! Moreover, Israel is exporting that technology around the world, improving farming production and saving lives.

All of this brings me to the remarkable story of how a member of our synagogue community brought Israel’s water technology to the country of Grenada. In so doing, Dr. Alvin Schonfeld created a relationship between the two nations and was recently named Grenada’s honorary ambassador to Israel.

It all began with a family cruise with a stopover on Grenada. Alvin and his wife, Susan, have a deep interest in audiology and met a person on the island who knew a great deal about the serious need for such services among Grenada’s young people. Alvin and Susan got to work immediately to ensure that hearing supplies and other medical supplies be sent to Grenada, as well as leading the way so that young people could travel to the United States to have surgical procedures that were unavailable in Grenada. Over the years Alvin got more involved in this small country and learned of the farming challenges due to the lack of useable water. Having visited Israel with a congregational trip, Alvin was familiar with drip irrigation. Alvin immediately went to work making connections between the two countries and today, drip irrigation has become a common feature of Grenadian agriculture. Grenada is also looking to bring Israel’s desalination and wastewater reclamation technology to the island. The government has also begun using Israeli educational materials so that school children can teach their parents about water conservation.

Grenada’s Prime Minister Mitchell acknowledged Alvin’s work, and in 1993 he was made Honorary Counsel to Grenada. Due to Alvin’s great love for Grenada and the State of Israel and all of his efforts, the two countries are in the process of establishing official diplomatic ties. Alvin has been nominated as the first non-resident Ambassador for Grenada to Israel. Because Grenada is part of the British Commonwealth, a letter of credence must be signed by Queen Elizabeth before Alvin can begin his duties. That is expected to happen in the next few months.

Through his passion, caring and willingness to get involved, Dr. Alvin Schonfeld was able to create a bridge between The State of Israel and Grenada. As a result, a small island is learning how it can be more water self-sufficient with the help of Israel. We regularly hear about the technological breakthroughs coming out of Israel. How powerful that through water Israel is able to be a

In my speech after Kol Nidre, I spoke about the effects of guilt. Certainly, we Jews have our share, perhaps more than our fair share of guilt. As I noted, guilt can hurt our relationships, it can immobilize us and can threaten our self esteem. Sigmund Freud went so far as to say that ‘guilt is dumb.’ But to the contrary, I also noted that guilt need not be a useless emotion and can be “the guardian of our goodness.”

I certainly hope that your High Holidays experience at Anshe Emet was fulfilling and productive, that you did the necessary work to start the new year less burdened and better ready to be your best selves.

I used the theme of relieving oneself of guilt and the essential role of forgiveness to seek your engagement in Anshe Emet’s diverse array of prayer, community building and learning opportunities. I also requested that you consider how your talents and resources can help our shul community whether as a member of a committee, as a trustee or by donating to our Sustaining Fund and Tree of Life. Please, before the end of the calendar year, make your contribution so that we can maintain and grow the high level of programming opportunities offered to you.

Last, I brought our community up to date on our Trustees’ four critical priorities. Here is the excerpt from my speech here for your review.

1. Now that we have crystallized plans to renovate our building, we will begin conversations with prospective major donors to fund the project. We will take the first steps toward realizing our vision of making Anshe Emet a Center for Jewish Life in Lakeview and throughout the Chicagoland area. Led by Rabbi Siegel and our Executive Vice President Scooter Simon, we will make Anshe Emet the safest and most welcoming facility, with new prayer spaces to accommodate multiple prayer experiences, a more contemporized look and feel for a new generation, a destination for all things Jewish. Join us. See the vision. Join us. Share the vision. Join us and make the vision reality.

2. We are deeply immersed in the reimagination of the Kindergarten through 12th grade youth education program, an effort led by Rabbi Chankin-Gould and board member Dani Lazar. The LaAtid Task Force, building a vision of the future for youth education at Anshe Emet, has 24 members working with a renowned consultant who have already conducted focus groups in our community and done a deep dive into best practices nationally. This year, the task force will be piloting new ideas and designing a leading edge program to be rolled out in the Fall of 2018. It was 5 years ago when I sat in Rabbi Siegel’s office along with Harold Hirshman and Penny Turner and heard our Rabbi say, “I want to build a learning-centric community.” This program takes a major step toward realizing our Rabbi’s dream.

3. We have commenced a nationwide search, led by our Vice President Art Friedson, to identify a new Executive Director to replace Barbara Haworth. As you may know, Barbara left Anshe Emet to become CEO of Jewish Council for Youth Services (JCYS). Join me in thanking Barbara for her 5+ years of superb service to our community and to wish her the best in her new responsibilities.

4. Needless to say, we will maintain continuity of our superior clergy. Rabbi Siegel has confided in me that this team of clergy is the best that we have had to serve our community in his 35 years. We are blessed to have you.

Your participation, your input and your ideas are always welcome. Thank you to our clergy, staff and trustees for their work and dedication. Thanks to everyone in our community for making our High Holy Days experience so fulfilling. May it be a sweet and peaceful year ahead.

light to the nations. Israel is teaching people around the world how to be the answer to their own prayers for rain. The Anshe Emet Synagogue takes great pride in all of Alvin’s efforts. He reminds us that it is not enough to pray for rain and God’s protection. We must use all of our resources to become the answer to our own prayers. Dr. Alvin Schonfeld has done just that, and he deserves our respect and praise.

Dr. Schonfeld will be honored by Israel Bonds on November 12th at the Westin North Shore: Congratulations Alvin and Yasher Koach!

MEET ONE OF OUR MOST FAMOUS SHEPHERDS: AKIVA

Two thousand years ago, there lived a man who was a shepherd. The shepherd’s name was Akiva. And this shepherd became friendly with his boss’ daughter, Rachel. Rachel said to him, “Akiva, I love you. And I see how you guide the sheep with tenderness, with care, and with thoughtfulness. I think that you could do the same for people.”

She convinced him to go and study to become a Rabbi. And eventually, Rabbi Akiva became possibly the most influential rabbi in Jewish history.

We are incredibly honored to welcome back Dr. Jane Shapiro to teach at Anshe Emet. Her class will explore original sources, art, and perspectives on the character of Rabbi Akiva through the lens of a new biography by Dr. Barry Holtz.

The course meets on Monday nights from 7:00-8:15 p.m. from November 27 through December 18.

To learn more about the course and to register visit https://www.ansheemet.org/learn/adult-education/2017-fall-curriculum.

And this is one of many thought-provoking adult education offerings that we are beginning – we hope that you will join us as we learn and explore together!

WHO IS WISE?: AN UPDATE ON YOUTH EDUCATION AT ANSHE EMET

When I was a kid, anytime I would complain about a teacher who I didn’t care for, my mother would ask me, “Ezeh Hu Chacham?”, “Who is wise?” She was quoting from Pirkei Avot, chapter 4. There it teaches: “Who is wise? - The one who learns from every person.” Now, in my case, what she meant was: there’s something for you to learn from EVERY teacher.

When I think about how this wisdom applies to Anshe Emet’s educational design process, to the LaAtid Task Force (creating a vision for K-12 youth education at Anshe Emet) I would frame it this way: Ben Zoma teaches, “Who is Wise? - The One who Learns from Every Person.” In other words, before we embark on change and adaptation, before we reinvent the wheel, what can we learn from other experts?

At this stage of LaAtid, our team of volunteers, led by Dani Lazar, Sam Schwartz-Fenwick and Jason Star, is working with our consultant Rob Weinberg and our expert educator Max Handelman, to suss out design ideas: concrete ways that we might take youth education to the next level. But we’re not working from a blank slate.

We are fueled with the Vision Pillars which emerged from our Community Conversations with you- we are looking for models which build knowledge, create community, celebrate diversity, and enable flexibility. And in doing our best to learn from the best of the best: we have learned some amazing things! People around the country are doing fabulous work!

We talked to educators in Kansas City who have reinvented what the “Jewish classroom” looks like. We talked to a synagoge in New York City where the model of “B’nai Mitzvah tutoring” was super-sized to make it so that all upper elementary Hebrew/Prayer skills are tutored one on one. We talked to a community in Boca where Jewish education options are offered 5 days a week- to offer parents as many choices as possible. We talked to folks in Los Angeles who build community for day school AND religious school families together, to folks in Westchester who have reinvented how to spark teens’ interests, and to folks in Atlanta who have re-envisioned what education means and who brings it to bear. We did what Ben Zoma taught us: we’ve been learning from every person.

Our job is to learn from all these folks, but not to precisely replicate what they have done. Anshe Emet is its own unique and precious community and in the medical field. The dinner is slated to have 250 people in attendance and is set to raise $1-3M in Israel Bond purchases. Mazel tov, Alvin!

Marla Barkoff and Laura Pollack
Laura and Marla have volunteered to serve as the brand new chairs of the Religious School Parent Committee. They have already worked to welcome every new family to the religious school, to advise our educational staff, and will work throughout the year to support the activities of the school and the cohesiveness of the parent community.

On behalf of a grateful community, you have our heartfelt appreciation for your vital work!

We talked to educators in Kansas City who fully embraced a “camp” model and infused its energy into their education. We talked to folks in Boston who have partnered with local artists, in their studios, to reinvent what the “Jewish classroom” looks like. We talked to a synagogue in New York City where the model of “B’nai Mitzvah tutoring” was super-sized to make it so that all upper elementary Hebrew/Prayer skills are tutored one on one. CARING COMMITTEE CORNER

I came to my first meeting at the Caring Committee last summer, unaware of all the great people and that were quietly doing huge things to make a difference in our community. One chairman after another gave a rundown about what their volunteers were doing and I was amazed.

Merle and Barry Gross have been chairs of the Chevra Kadisha for many years, training committed volunteers in the ancient mitzvah of ritually preparing a body for burial, with love, respect and honor. Yes, this can be done as a service of the Jewish Mortuary, but these Anshe Emet volunteers selflessly give of their skills with great knowledge and heart to our own at a most intimate and needed time.

Julie Ann Sklaver heads the Bikur Cholim Team, and what a team it is. These volunteers develop one-to-one relationships with isolated congregants and are a source of ongoing support to those who are sick or disabled. Having met many of these volunteers and listening to their stories, I can say that these friendships are a two-way street of enjoying each other’s company. It makes a difference.

Marcie Marcovitz is the new chair of the Shiva Committee. She is building a team to set up a Shiva when requested, and to provide support to the families. Diane Tesler will provide training to volunteers. The warmth and care of both of these leaders and their volunteers at this time of loss conveys our message: there is a community here for you.

Jessica Bearak is chair of the New Baby Meals and Ruth Rau is chair of the Rose Crown Minyan Program that provides meals for families with new babies and for the sick. Jessica and Ruth coordinate with their committee to prepare and deliver four meals to congregant families with new babies, a joyous and much appreciated mitzvah.

I am thrilled to be a part of the Caring Community. We do a lot, and we hope to do more. Please join us. For more information, please email Jan Schwartz, Chair of the Caring Committee, at caring@ansheemet.org.

Dear Anshe Emet congregation,

I Grow Emet started from the idea that every single person - no matter identity or circumstance - has unlimited potential. Everyone is valuable, and everyone can make a difference, no exceptions.

When our founder Robbin Carroll began teaching yoga in schools in West Englewood, she knew she had to be in proximity to the problems to truly know how to impact a community in need. She started showing up, trying to figure out why the suffering was so deep in her own city. When she realized the issues her children faced extended far beyond the school walls, she took to the streets. She came to understand that in order to alleviate the wounds of trauma in children, the wounds of the adults around them must also heal. With the idea for a Peace House, she bought some sandwiches, set up on the corner of 64th and Honore, and asked a question to everyone she met: “Are you ready to take back your community?”

In other words, do you see that your actions matter?

Our Peace House was and is a project of hope. Hope is the core of this deep knowing that your actions matter. After purchasing an abandoned home up for demolition, we involved more than 50 people in Englewood in its renovation. The house sat on one of the most violent blocks in the entire city, a place where lack of resources, trauma, and isolation had eroded hope. Today, we operate more than 15 healing programs out of the Peace House, and now there is a place where everyone can belong and feel loved.

Hope is the light that breaks through the cracks. We help our community envision alternative possibilities for themselves and their neighborhood, and we give them the tools to make those possibilities real. It is our greatest honor to bring out hope in those who had lost it, to show each and every person that their actions matter. Our partnership with Anshe Emet is a natural continuation of this effort, and we see the potential for us not only to transform one block or one community, but our entire city. We are so grateful to each and every one of you for your support of our community pantry and all our programs.

Thank you for your actions, because they matter, and you matter.

Peace,

The I Grow Chicago family

JOSEPH AND BELLE BRAUN
ANSHE EMET RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

As our school year continues we are seeing happy faces in the hallways, the routine has set in and I am seeing the classrooms in action and happy children at all age levels learning and growing together.

There are amazing things happening at the Joseph and Belle Braun Anshe Emet Religious School thanks to our fantastic teachers and Madrikhim. It was moving to see each class visit the Sukkah (which they helped to decorate) and say the blessings as they waved the Lulav and Etrog. Additionally, I wandered into a fifth grade room where the students were discussing the world’s recent disasters. They then created teams to discuss how they would act if something were to happen in their community. A fourth-grade class paid a visit to the sanctuary and took note of the stained-glass windows. Finally, a first-grade class had spent the morning with Rabbi Donni who rolled out a Torah scroll in spirit of Simchat Torah. I listened to the students describe what they saw … their observations were spot on and beautiful.

As we move past the Holidays and into the routine of the school year we will continue to see learning and progress. There are many programs planned in the coming months that will allow students of all ages to delve head first into Hebrew, ethics, holidays and so much more. We are thrilled that we will be kicking off our family programs and look forward to seeing parents in the classrooms and hallways.

Looking forward to a wonderful month ahead, and to continuing to become a part of this rich and vibrant community, and to meeting each of you.

A few dates to note:
November 12: J2M
November 12: JK family Program
November 19: J2M
November 23 and 26: No Religious School - Thanksgiving

THE IMPORTANCE OF SHMUSY AT ANSHE EMET

This is a transcript of the remarks Lilit Matar, SHMUSY President, delivered on Yom Kippur.

This past July I spent a month on USY Israel Pilgrimage, L’Takayn Olam- A trip for Conservative teens to experience Israel and give back with volunteering and community service. The thing that inspired me the most was when Israelis and Jews from around the world gathered in front of Prime Minister Netanyahu’s house and protested for equality for all denominations of Judaism at the Kotel. In taking things even further, as an act of protest, the women on pilgrimage decided that we would daven in our tallitot and tefillin in the Women’s section of the Kotel, even though this right is under threat.

As a Conservative Jewish woman, and the president of the USY (youth movement) chapter here at Anshe Emet, I was inspired because we were all protesting to protect my [and many other people’s] rights to daven in egalitarian services, wear tallit and tefillin, and lead services at the Kotel. I was so happy that USY enabled me to take part in this inspiring action. This was an act of Tikun Olam, repairing the world, one of the central themes of USY.

A big part of USY is repairing the world through volunteer work, community service, and teamwork. This is something USY does. It’s all about the best of Judaism, and it helps make teens, like me, the best we can be. Here at Anshe Emet, our chapter of USY is called SHMUSY. In SHMUSY we have done tikkan olam by volunteering at the Lakeview Food Pantry, volunteering at the sunrise elderly home, making sandwiches for the Night Ministry, and more!

Unfortunately, while I love USY, I’m constantly hearing about how the conservative movement is dying. That’s not my experience. My experience is the opposite. Here at Anshe Emet I am part of a thriving community of Conservative Jews who love Torah, love community, love food, and love one another. I have literally grown up here. This is a second home to me. In my presidency of SHMUSY, I am hoping that other teens will share that same feeling.

Conservative Judaism is a denomination in which egalitarianism exists along with traditional Jewish observance. This is a community where I can keep kosher and keep Shabbat with others in my community, while reading Torah, leading services, and wearing a Tallit and tefillin. This is a community where men and women, boys and girls, live and lead on equal footing. What makes Conservative Judaism so valuable, is that it is inclusive. I am proud to say, even more so here at Anshe Emet than others. Observant Jews, as well as cultural Jews, are welcome to come and pray in our synagogue. We are here to teach, and to help all the Jews who want to be part of our community. We should be the future. So let’s all work together to make the conservative movement stronger. Send your kids to our USY chapter. I’m the president, and I can guarantee that it will be lots of fun.

On Friday nights around once a month, a bunch of Anshe Emet teens go over to a rabbi’s house and do kabbalat shabbat, eat, hang out, play games, and make friends. Other fun programs have included snow tubing, bubble soccer, Israeli movie nights, and the lag b’omer bon fire, complete with s’mores! There is more to USY than just chapter programming. SHMUSY is one of 10 chapters in CHUSY, the midwest region of USY.

We have three regional conventions every year. I believe that these are the best parts of USY. These are fun-filled weekend long retreats. We make new friends from all over the region...
WHAT’S HAPPENING IN ANSHE EMET YOUTH?

What’s it like to be in a room with over 600 Jewish teens from across the country, Canada and Israel? Pure madness, joy and an overwhelming sense of pride for our Jewish future. USY’s International Convention will be hosted here in Chicago next month. From December 24th to December 28th over 600 Jewish teens will gather to socialize, sight see, learn, and do community service projects here in our own backyard. It is a huge honor to be a host city for International Convention (IC), and it has not been in Chicago since 2009! We cannot wait to show USY what an amazing city Chicago is, and how wonderful our community is.

IC cannot happen without your help! There are a couple of ways to volunteer with USY and Anshe Emet’s own USY Chapter, SHMUSY during this time. During the convention, IC needs adult chaperones to help staff and supervise various activities. You can find out more by going here- www.regpacks.com/icchaperones or contacting Larry Sklar at chaperones@usy.org

After IC is over, SHMUSY is hosting about 40 teens from the Southwest Region [Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana] and Far West Region [Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Hawaii] for a Shabbat experience called Post Convention from December 28-31. We need host homes to host these teens for three nights! If you are interested in hosting teens in your home, please go here for more information - http://tinyurl.com/shmusyhostpostcon17 There is not a better way to show teens from across the country what an outstanding community Anshe Emet is.

or reunite with friends from camp or past retreats, eat crazy amounts of junk food, play games and more games, celebrate shabbat together, and go out as a region to do some amazing activities. We’ve gone to Kalahari water park, Disney on Ice, Medieval Times, and more. This year international USY convention, with teens from around the world, will be in Chicago! I can’t wait to host old friends and new friends from all over the country and the globe!

While it’s true that USY is super fun, it’s not just fun, it’s important.

In a time when anti-semitism is growing all around us, making Judaism more inclusive and stronger is the only way we can survive. But not all Jews see it this way. The chief Rabbinate of Israel has compiled a list of rabbis whose conversions they do not consider legitimate. This black list includes our Rabbi, Michael Siegel. My experience this summer, showed me Jews who, unfortunately, spend their energy trying to stop women from leading prayer, rather than trying to bring our community together. In this time of growing peril for Jews around the world, this is not a time for greater separation. This is a time for greater unity. There is another way to lead. USY leads with unity.

USY is a place for teens to come together in celebrating our values and vision of an inclusive community, in having endless fun together, AND in leaving the world better, and more united, than we found it.

I am a proud USYer. I am a proud president of this USY chapter, SHMUSY. Please join me in supporting the important work of USY.

PROGRAMS

COLLEGE CONNECTION

Help Anshe Emet keep in touch with your student while away at school. We mail meaningful, interesting and fun reminders of Jewish traditions several times per academic year. Send your name, your student’s name, full college mailing address and email to aecollegeconnection@gmail.com. It’s never too late to sign up a student for the next package. We compile a new list each school year so previous participants need to resubmit their contact information.

BOOK CLUB

The Sisterhood book group began its fall session in September. Although many of our members have been in the group since its inception in 2002, we welcome newcomers. We are fortunate to have Rachel Jacobsohn as our facilitator, who always brings insights into the selections. If you are interested in joining us, please contact Judy at Hometl1@aol.com. We meet from 6:45-8:45 p.m. at sites TBA at Anshe Emet. Upcoming books include:

Thursday, November 2: Exit West, Hohsin Mamid. When Nadia and Saeed fall in love in a distant unnamed city, they are just like any other young couple. Early in Exit West, Hamid explains that geography is destiny, and in the case of his two young lovers, geography dictates that they must leave. Hamid offers up a fantastical device to deliver his refugees to places.

Thursday, December 7: A Gentleman in Moscow, Amor Towles. In the year 1922, Count Alexander Ilyich Rostov has been sentenced to House arrest at the famed Moscow Hotel Metropol. Once of the landed elite of Nizhy Novgorod, the Count must live out the rest of his days in one small hotel room. As the Bolsheviks have persevered following their revolution, no long are there ruling classes in Russia, only comrades. It is under these conditions that Count Rostov has become a former person who can no longer step outside of the Metropol. Using this premise, Amor Towles has woven prose to create an enchanting story that makes up the Count’s changed course of existence.

AWARD-WINNING MEN’S CLUB
MENSCHEN/MENTION

We hope our Men’s Club members and friends had good holidays. This has proven to be a difficult time for our Men’s Club Board, though. In the last few months three of our Board members, Alan Mintz, Harvey Popolow, and Jon Norton, have lost their mothers. We extend our deepest sympathy to them and their families, and we wish them a peaceful New Year.

Despite these challenging times, our award-winning Anshe Emet Men’s Club continues to host an excellent selection of events for you. Our famous annual Steak and Shots in the Sukkah was held on October 9 in our beautiful Anshe Emet sukkah, and it proved once again to be a most successful and enjoyable celebration of the Sukkot holiday. More than 65 of our Men’s Club members and friends experienced an excellent full course steak dinner or veggie burger option and first class Scotch tastings with Brian, the “scotchologist,” as we honored our special guests, Cantors Liz and Steven Berke, for their valued service to our congregation. Men’s Club donated $500 of the proceeds to the Jewish Federation of Greater Houston—the charity designated by Cantors Liz and Steven. Our events usually represent a Men’s Club team effort, but a special thanks is extended to Larry Kosova who was our main point person again for Steak and Shots. We also extend our gratitude to Gil Matar who served again as our master chef for the delectable BBQ and to Stan Dreyfuss who served as Gil’s dedicated sous chef. Lois and our staff outdid themselves with the beautiful table arrangements and settings. I think we all gave new meaning to Sukkot as Z’man Simchatenu, the Season of our Rejoicing. If you were not there to make a L’Chaim to Liz and Steven, then make sure you do not miss this event next year when we celebrate again.

As in years past we also held our annual elections for our Men’s Club Board at our Sukkot event. The results are as follows: Barry Balik, President; Harvey Popolow, Immediate Past President; Gregg Pollack, First Vice President; Larry Kosova, Programming Vice President; Jonathan Norton, Membership Vice President; Alan Mintz, Secretary; Neil Schwartz, Treasurer. Harvey was presented with a special award in appreciation for his service as President. We also thanked Josh Kantrow for his previous service as he is stepping down from his previous position of Board Member At Large. I look forward to working with each of you for another award-winning year.

Our next Men’s Club event will be held on November 28 at 6:30 p.m. as we host a special presentation by fellow Anshe Emet congregant and best-selling author, Jonathan Eig. Jonathan will discuss his new book, "Ali: A Life" - the first complete, unauthorized biography of Muhammad Ali. The book represents more than 4 years of research and over 500 interviews, including Ali’s family, FBI tapes, and meetings with many celebrities. Signed copies of this illuminating work will be available for purchase. You may register online by using the following link: http://tinyurl/Eig_AliBio.

Other future events include another outing to a Chicago Bulls game on December 11 as they play against the Boston Celtics and a presentation by a former NFL player in January. Details for both events will be available soon.

If you would like to start the New Year right with new and enjoyable opportunities, then get involved in your Men’s Club. Feel free to contact us at mensclub@ansheemet.org, check our Facebook page, Anshe Emet Men’s Club, or talk to me in shul. Remember, we are incomplete without you.

Barry Balik, Men’s Club President

The Na’aseh Committee fosters opportunities for the Anshe Emet community to support social justice causes. Thank you to everyone who has contributed toward our efforts -- your support is appreciated! A special thanks to Shalva and Mimi Stern for joining us in October to share words of Torah linking the fragility of the sukkah with the work we can all do to foster healthy relationships and secure homes, as we commemorated Domestic Violence Awareness Month in October. In November and December, please join us in the following activities:

- Join other Anshe Emet members for a unique opportunity as we provide volunteer tax preparation services through the Center for Economic Progress. The CEP provides online courses to teach you how volunteer in one of several roles with varying time commitments, including as a tax preparer or a savings coach. If you would like to find out more, please visit http://www.economicprogress.org/volunteer or email us!

- On December 14 during the annual Light and Latkes Celebration, Anshe Emet will support the youth served by the Night Ministry. We need donations to cover the cost of gift cards for the youth and for the food we purchase all year long. Each gift card is for $25. Please consider sponsoring one or more gifts. Please send your check to AES Sisterhood, 3751 N. Broadway, Chicago, IL 60613. Please note Night Ministry on the check. If you would like to volunteer, contact Janine Landow-Esser, janine811@gmail.com.

- Also at Light and Latkes, Anshe Emet will host a blood drive through the Red Cross. Each pint of donated blood may help as many as three people, so you make a huge difference in someone’s life by giving blood!

- Our refugee resettlement efforts continue as well with the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society and No One Left Behind. You can sign up to volunteer, donate, contribute welcome messages and recipes, or advocate.

- Anshe Emet is a member of ONE Northside, a community organization that seeks to enact change through community organizing and fostering grassroots leadership. We’re deepening our relationship with them, so be on the lookout for upcoming trainings and workshops for AES members! You can visit http://onenorthside.org/ for more information about this great organization.

To sign up to help with one of the above activities, or if you have any questions, please email us at naaseh.ansheemet@gmail.com.
THE EMPTY NESTER: WHAT HAVE WE DONE FOR YOU LATELY?

As a Jewish Institution we hear about statistics revealing a decrease in synagogue membership and engagement. Friends from other smaller cities lament the decline in their home shuls as they express the lack of interest in engagement in Jewish life not only by young adults and young families but by empty nesters as well. The largest group of decline in American Jewry is the empty nester who feels that the synagogue offers nothing for them once their children are grown. A study recently came out of the UJA Federation in New York focusing on the relationship between synagogue engagement and the empty nester and cited various reasons for lack of engagement from this age demographic. Some cited a lack of personal connection, loss of meaning, and the perception that synagogues are configured solely with young families in mind.

At Anshe Emet, we strive to meet the needs of our congregants. For our empty nesters we have created opportunities for social engagement through the creation of Shabbat Shelanu. On the third Friday of each month we meet for a Pro-neg at 6:45 p.m. with wine and cheese then proceed to an abbreviated Kabbalat Shabbat followed by a special speaker or program. We have created Something for Us, a group that meets for social programs 4X a year. Their first program for the year is the popular Trivia night on December 9. We have created a Neighborhood Tisch program to bring clergy into the homes of our congregants to connect with each other. If you have other ideas, please don’t hesitate to contact me.

November is National Adoption Awareness Month. For over two decades, this month has been designated as a time to shine a light on adoption and to bring attention to the number of children and youth in foster care waiting for permanent families. In addition to celebrating adoption, this month also provides us with a good opportunity to recognize that there are different choices that couples and individuals can take when they are struggling to build their families. Parallel to adoption many people turn to assisted reproduction as an option. As a result of this expansion to build their families. Parallel to adoption many people turn to assisted reproduction as an option. As a result of this expansion of possible paths, the definition of the modern Jewish family has expanded. Parents might be a Mom and Dad, a single Mom, a single Dad, two Moms, two Dads or more involving step-parents, foster parents or birth parents in an open adoption. Families can be culturally and racially diverse. Family diversity is cause for celebration because it has contributed to enhancing and strengthening the myriad of threads that form the tapestry that is our Jewish community.

As potential alternatives for family building has broadened, Project Esther: The Chicago Jewish Adoption Network of Jewish Child & Family Services continues to widen its doors in order to ensure that we are ready to support anyone who walks through those doors -- those struggling with fertility issues, those exploring assisted reproductive technology options, those considering adoption, and all families as they deal with everyday stresses. In November and throughout the year, Project Esther remains committed to effectively addressing the needs, questions and concerns of every individual and couple.

For more information about Project Esther’s programs and services, please go to Project Esther or contact Anshe Emet’s JCFS liaison Ann Luban at AnnLuban@jcfs.org or at 847-745-5420.
