

at Home Family Resources
for the Families of Anshe Emet

Welcome

DEAR ANSHE EMET FAMILIES,

There is nothing typical about the High Holy Days 5781/2020. Our weary spirits are being offered the opportunity to embark on a High Holy Day season in ways we never have before, and may never again. This year, we are together while apart. This year, we connect with our families and friends in dramatically different mediums. This year, each of us is called upon to participate in creating more of the High Holy Day experience at home.

We are parents. We are tired. We look to the New Year to provide hope and healing.

Anshe Emet is here to help. With the resources provided in this modest booklet, and arriving in your email inbox, Anshe Emet seeks to empower and enable parents to provide their families with a deeply meaningful High Holy Day experience.

Anshe Emet is offering four pre-recorded services for your family:

- Rosh Hashanah for Families with Young Children (includes Shofar) with Rabbi Donni Aaron and Maxine Handelman
- Yom Kippur for Families with Young Children with Rabbi Donni Aaron and Maxine Handelman
- Rosh Hashanah for Families (includes Shofar) with children in 1st to 8th grades with Rick Recht, Rabbi Josh Warshawsky and Shira Kline
- Yom Kippur for Families with children in 1st to 8th grades with Rick Recht, Rabbi Josh Warshawsky and Shira Kline

You will find the links to these services in your email.

The resources in these pages will help you prepare your spirit, your home, and your family. Activities within these pages provide ways for every member of your family to engage in Jewish learning, and to create together the emotional landscape of the High Holy Days.

Anshe Emet is here for you. If you seek more ways to prepare your family for the High Holy Days, please don't hesitate to reach out.

Creating a Spiritual Space

In Your Home

While we are faced with celebrating High Holy Days within the walls of our homes, consider taking time to create a sacred space within your home to experience the livestreamed or recorded services. Even if it is a brief service experience, it is worthwhile to transform a part of your home into a makom kadosh, a sacred space. What could this look like?

Creating the Space:

- Try to face east – mark the eastern wall with the Mizrach coloring page included in this booklet.
- Make sure everyone is comfortable, using special pillows or throws. If possible, connect your computer to your TV so you have a larger screen.
- Perhaps have fresh flowers, put a table cloth over the platform for your screen, create a visual that brings the holiday into your space with meaningful objects – a shofar, family pictures, candlesticks, etc.

How to Sanctify your Space:

In Judaism intention and mental presence play an important role in prayer and action:

- Set the space “apart” from the rest of the room or house by inhaling, exhaling and then reciting one of the following when you sit in your space for the service (or contact Cantor Liz for other suggestions).
 - How good are your tents, O Jacob, Your sacred places, O Israel! (Numbers 24:5)
 - Indeed, the place on which you stand is holy ground. (Exodus 3:5)
 - Blessed are You Adonai, who separates between holy and ordinary. (the end of Havdalah)

How to Show Up in Your Sacred Space:

- Wear special clothes!
- If it is your custom to buy something new for Rosh Hashanah to wear at the synagogue, or to what would have been a family meal, then keep up the custom.
- Don't forget your tallit and kippah.

How to Act in your Sacred Space – Participate!

- You are in a service – sing along, say amen, stand up, dance, be seated, etc. It may feel awkward at first, but you are joined by everyone in their homes doing it as well. Try to see through your walls to the others you know who would be there in the rows around you at the synagogue.
- Have the machzor in your hand, read the commentary on the sides of the pages, stay engaged in the service.

Thanks to Cantor Matt Axelrod and his blog entry, Turning Your Home into a Sacred Space, and Rabbi Elyse Goldstein's Mikdash M'at suggestions.

Tashlich Guide

Tashlich is a way to physically symbolize our casting off of bad habits and bad choices from the last year. We go to a flowing body of water and use bread or simply turn our pockets inside out to brush away the little pieces of dust and lint that gather there. These little pieces represent some of our mistakes. By getting rid of them we can begin the new year with a clean slate.

Psalms 118: 5-9 מִן־הַמַּצָּר קָרָאתִי יְיָ-הֵ עָנְנִי בְמִרְחֹב יְיָ-הֵ: ה' לִי לֹא אִירָא מִה־יַעֲשֶׂה לִי אָדָם:
Min Hameitzar Karati Yah, anani vamerchav Yah. Adonai li, lo ira, mah ya-aseh li adam.

In distress I called upon God; God answered me and brought me relief. Adonai is for me; I will not fear; What can man do to me? Adonai is for me as my helper; And I shall gaze upon them that hate me. It is better to take refuge in Adonai than to trust in man. It is better to take refuge in Adonai than to trust in princes.

The Sea

Throwing bread into the water and reciting the biblical passage mentioning "the deep" is a reminder of the deep out of which the days of creation were formed. Thus, by going to the sea on Rosh Hashanah, we celebrate creation and are led to think of our own place in God's scheme of creation. When we contemplate these matters and repent from our sins, then they are truly thrown away, into the water, and we feel renewed on this Day of Judgement. - Moses Isserles

Is there any divinity save You who forgives the sins and pardons the transgressions of the remnant, Your people? You do not maintain anger forever, for You delight in love. You will return to us compassionately, overcoming the consequences of our sin, hurling our sins into the depths of the sea. You will keep faith with Jacob, showing enduring love to Abraham, as You promised our ancestors in days of old. - Micah 7:18-20

As you prepare to do Tashlich:

- Think about the last year - it has been an unusual one! We all coped as best as we could.
- Sometimes our frustration may have gotten the best of us.
- What were some of the choices you made at home that could have been better?
- What are some of the choices you made in school or the playground that could have been better?
- Think about your actions or some things that you said that weren't so kind, and as you do, throw a piece of bread into the water.
- When you walk away, you are walking away from those choices and know that you can make different choices in the new year!

Tashlich Guide

You can read this together:

Let us cast away the sin of deception, so that we will mislead no one in word or deed nor pretend to be what we are not.

Let us cast away the sin of stubbornness, so we will neither be consumed by desire for what we lack nor grow unmindful of the blessings which are already ours.

Let us cast away the sin of selfishness, which keeps us from enriching our lives through wider concerns, and greater sharing, and from reaching out in love to other human beings.

Let us cast away the sin of indifference so that we may be sensitive to the sufferings of others and responsive to the needs of our people everywhere.

On this Day of Judgement, I take account of my life and relationships during the last year. Of some things I am proud, of others disappointed or ashamed. I resolve myself to strengthen and sustain the many mitzvahs I have performed—love in relationships, honesty in business, engagement in the repair of the world. And I resolve myself to cast off the blemishes—those actions or words that I regret. Help me to preserve the good and to cast off the bad. Judge me for life in a year of goodness and blessing.

A Prayer for Tashlich

Rabbi Rachel Barenblat

Here I am again

ready to let go of my mistakes.

*Help me to release myself
from all the ways I've missed the mark.*

Help me to stop carrying the karmic baggage of my poor choices.

As I cast this bread upon the waters lift my troubles off my shoulders.

Help me to know that last year is over,
washed away like crumbs in the current.

Open my heart to blessing and gratitude.

Renew my soul as the dew renews the grasses.

And we say together:

Amen.

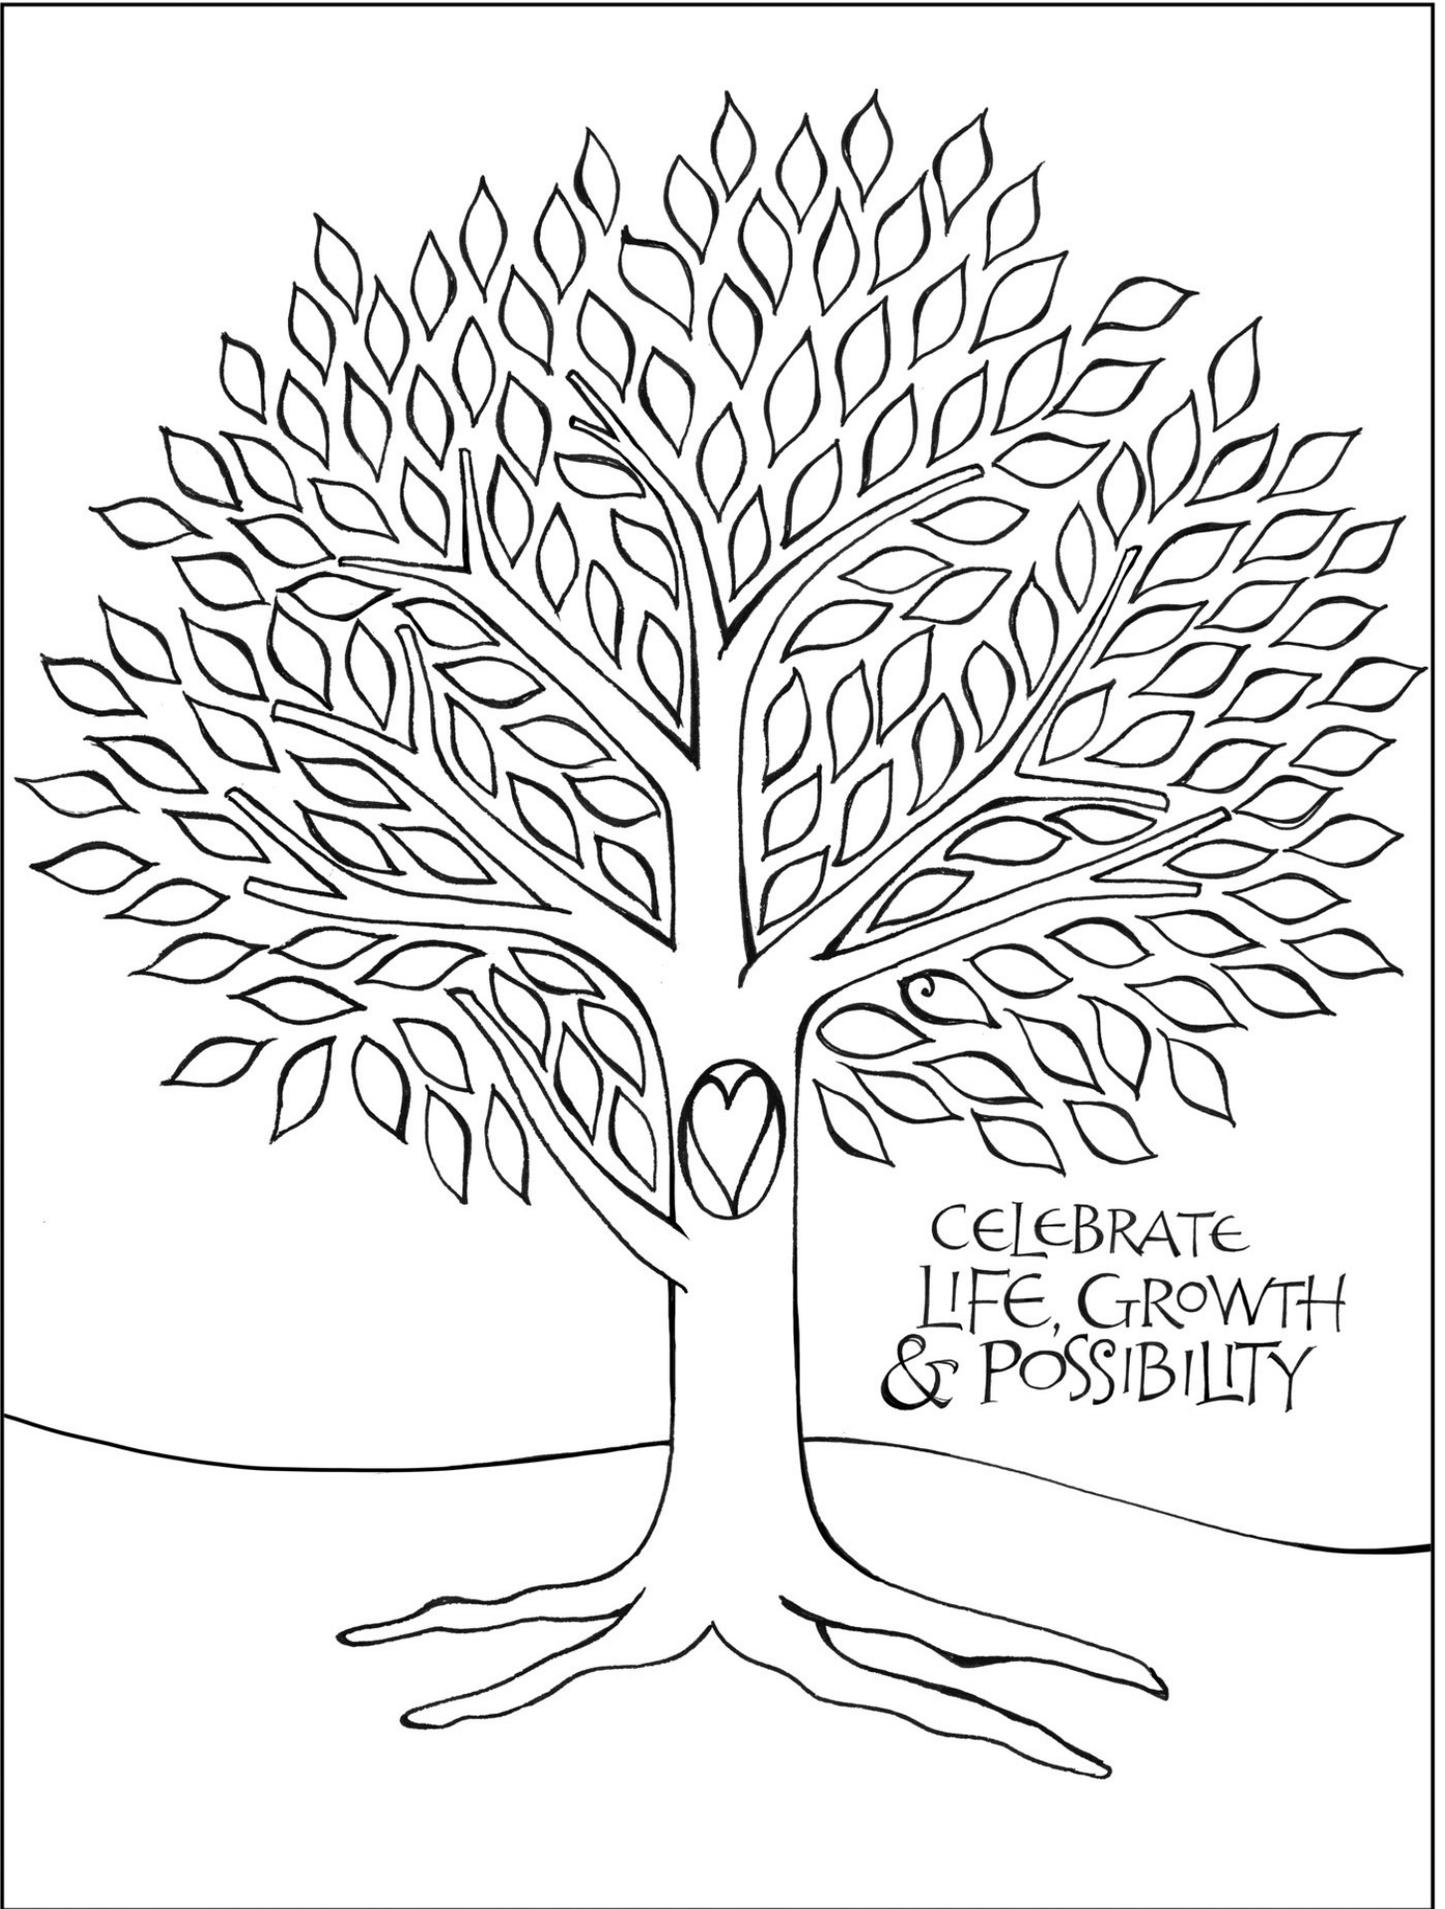

Isaiah 11:9

לֹא-יַרְעוּ וְלֹא-יִשְׁחִיתוּ בְּכֹל-הָאֶרֶץ קִדְשֵׁי כִּי-מִלְאָה הָאֲרֶזְךָ דַּעַה אֶת-ה' כַּמַּיִם לַיָּם מֵחַסִּים:

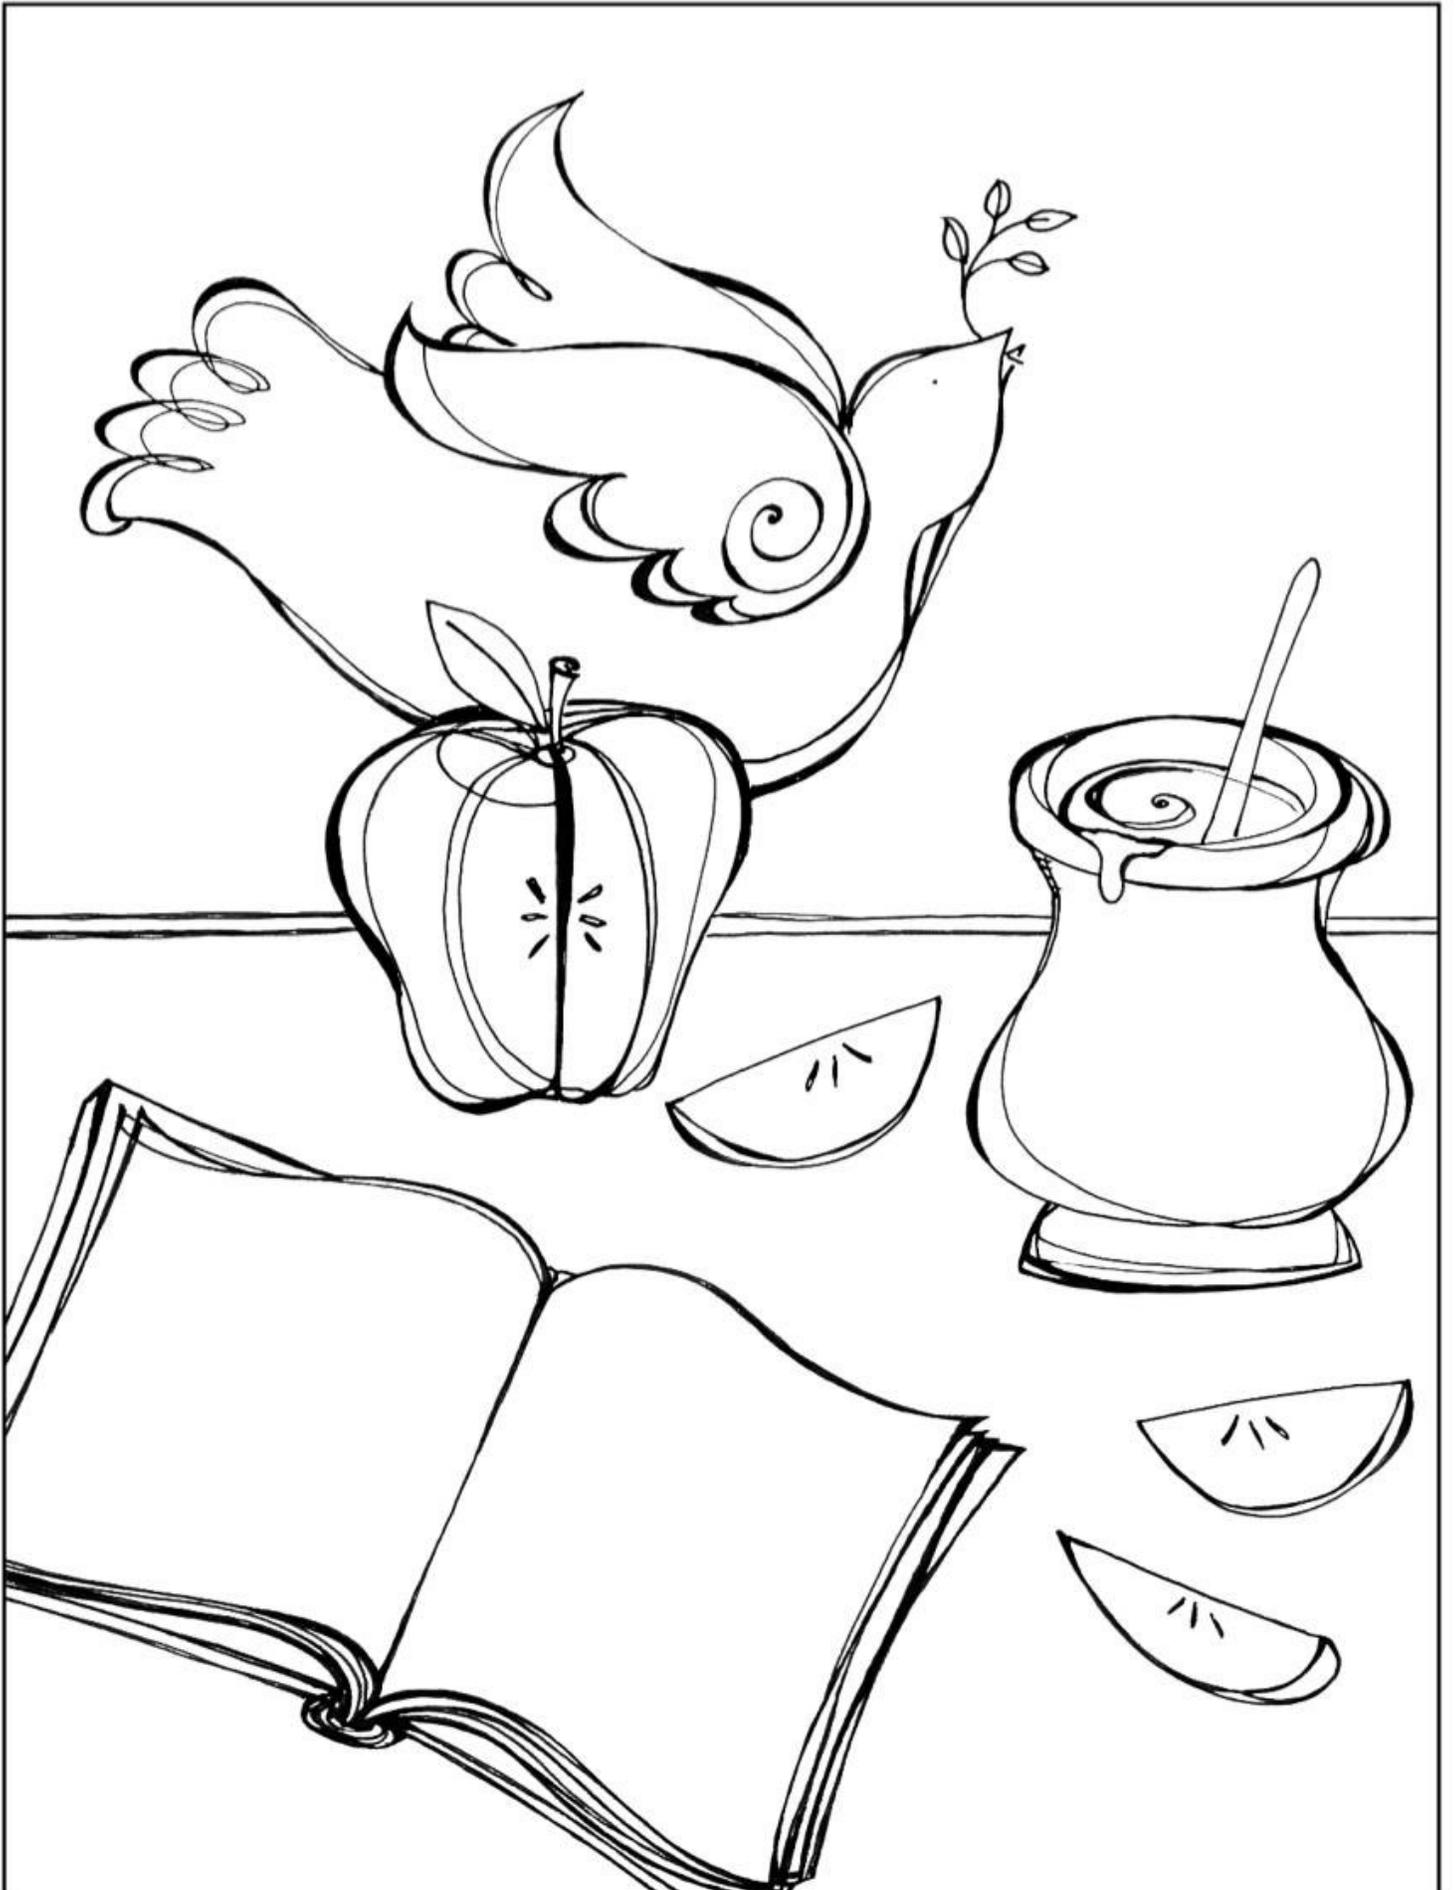

Lo Yareu v'lo yas'hitu b'chol-har kodshi ki-mal-ah ha'aretz, deah et-Adonai, kamayim la'yam mechasim.

(9) They shall not hurt nor destroy in all My holy mountain; For the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Adonai as the waters cover the sea.

Tikkun Olam

Resources & Ideas for Your Family

Hands On Tikkun Olam

Get your kids involved in donating:

Even little ones can help give gently used toys or clothes to donate. Have them help you decide what should go to other kids in need. Maybe do a pre-selection beforehand so they will not want to keep everything.

Create a Tzedakah Box Together:

Turn an old matzah box, cereal box, pickle jar, or tissue holder into a special tzedakah box. Being part of creating a special box for weekly tzedakah contributions helps kids feel extra invested in the practice. While you color, create, and draw, you can also brainstorm ideas for ways to use the money in the container.

Clean Up a local park or beach:

Even with shelter in place, there is still trash around! Help pick up litter to do a little part in beautifying our city!

Lakeview Pantry: One of Chicago's largest and longest-operating food pantries. Anshe Emet provides volunteers on the last Monday (10am to 2pm) and Wednesday (1pm to 5pm) of each month. Volunteers are always needed for shelf stocking and food distribution at the Pantry, 3945 N. Sheridan Rd.

To sign up and volunteer, please contact Mimi Landau: mimiglandau@gmail.com

Serve Youth Needs: Anshe Emet volunteers work with the Night Ministry every other month to provide a meal to the clients of the Youth Outreach Team. There are opportunities to feed youth who are homeless by baking, cooking, and serving food on the street at Halsted and Belmont. We also collect hygiene products and new warm winter gear for the Night Ministry. Please contact Janine Landow-Esser to participate:

Janine.Landow-Esser@quarles.com

Donating items:

At our Machzor and High Holy Day Bag Pick-up, families can donate items to the following organizations.

The Ark: All food donations must be certified kosher and should have six months before expiration. For a complete list and ideas visit www.arkchicago.org/donate.

Challah Recipe

Arlene Segal's Rosh Hashanah Delight

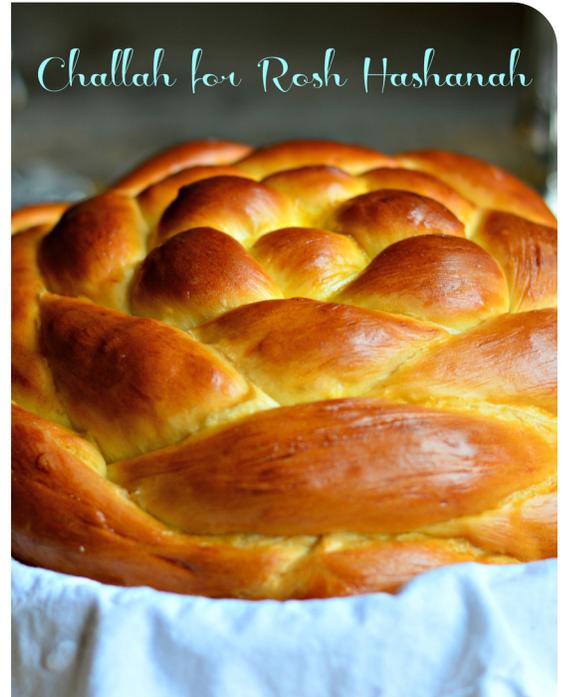

A delicious cake-like challah. Arlene made this challah only for Rosh Hashanah, and brought it to friends, even sent it to kids at college. She was always happy to share this recipe.

INGREDIENTS

7 cup flour
¾ cup sugar
2 packages active dry yeast (4 ½ teaspoon)
1 ¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup oil
1 ¼ cup very hot water
4 eggs (room temp)
1 teaspoon cold water
1 teaspoon sugar
½ cup raisins (optional)
Poppy and sesame seeds (optional)

DIRECTIONS

In a large bowl, mix 1 ¼ cup flour, sugar, salt, yeast and oil
Beat with mixer
Add hot water—beat
Add 3 eggs and the white of the 4th egg
Add about ½ cup flour. Continue adding flour by the ½ cup until it is dough consistency (approx. 5-6 cup total)
Add raisins (optional)
Knead on a floured surface
Place in a greased bowl, and roll around so entire ball of dough is greased. Cover bowl with a damp cloth
Place bowl in a warm, draft-free space for 1 to 1 ½ hours, until dough has doubled in size
Punch down and knead again. Divide into 2 and shape or braid into round challot*
Place on cookie sheet. Cover lightly with plastic wrap Allow to rise 35-40 minutes
Mix remaining egg yolk, 1 teaspoon of water and 1 teaspoon sugar in a small bowl.
Paint challot with egg mixture
Sprinkle with sesame or poppy seeds (optional)
Bake at 325°F for 30-35 minutes, until challot are a medium brown

*At this point you may remove a small bit of dough and say the blessing:
Baruch Atah Adonai Eloheinu Melech HaOlam, Asher Kidshanu B'Mitzvotav V'tzivanu L'ha-frish Challah.

Blessed are You, Adonai our God, Ruler of the Universe, who has sanctified us with the commandments and commanded us to separate challah.

Burn the piece of dough in the oven wrapped in tin foil.

Simanim Salad Recipe

This flavorful autumn salad uses many of the traditional foods of a Rosh Hashanah Seder to create one great dish.

INGREDIENTS

- 1 can cannellini beans, drained
- 4 oz. butter lettuce
- 1 leek, white part sliced into ¼ inch disks
- ½ acorn squash, peeled and chopped into ¼ inch slices
- 1 carrot, peeled and sliced into ¼ inch disks
- ½ beet, peeled and chopped into ¼ inch slices
- 1 pomegranate, seeds removed
- 6 dates, pitted and cubed fine
- 1 apple, cubed fine
- ½ cup extra virgin olive oil
- ½ cup lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1 teaspoon coarse kosher salt

Preheat oven to 425°F

Mix drained beans with 2 tablespoons honey, ½ teaspoon of salt, ½ cup lemon juice, and ¼ cup oil

Set aside to marinate

Toss leek, acorn squash, beet, and carrot slices with ¼ cup oil and ½ teaspoon of salt

Line a baking sheet with parchment paper and add vegetable mixture

Spread out evenly in a thin layer

Put in the preheated oven for ~35 minutes, turning every ~15 minutes with a spatula

Once golden brown and soft, remove from oven to cool for 10 minutes

Chop dates and apple to similar fine cubes

In a large bowl add the lettuce, pomegranate, dates and apples

Add slightly cooled roasted vegetable mixture.

Add marinated beans and toss to coat

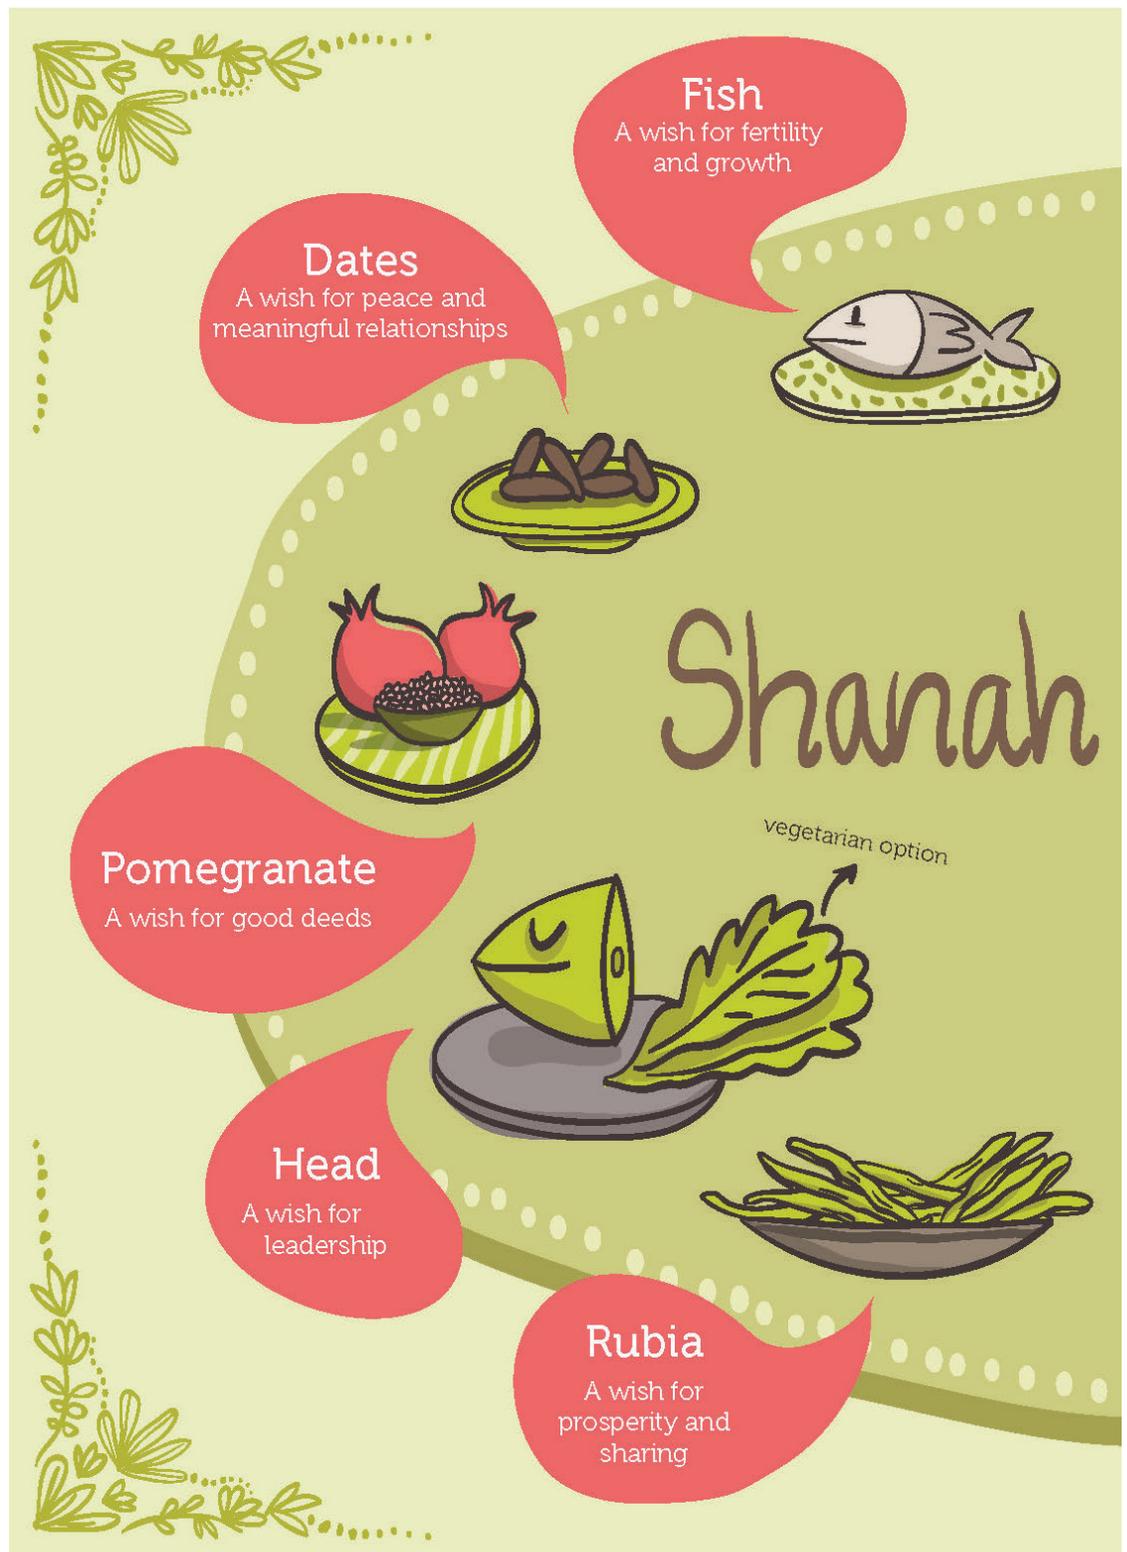

Ready to serve!

Host Your Own

Rosh Hashanah Seder

There is an ancient custom ...

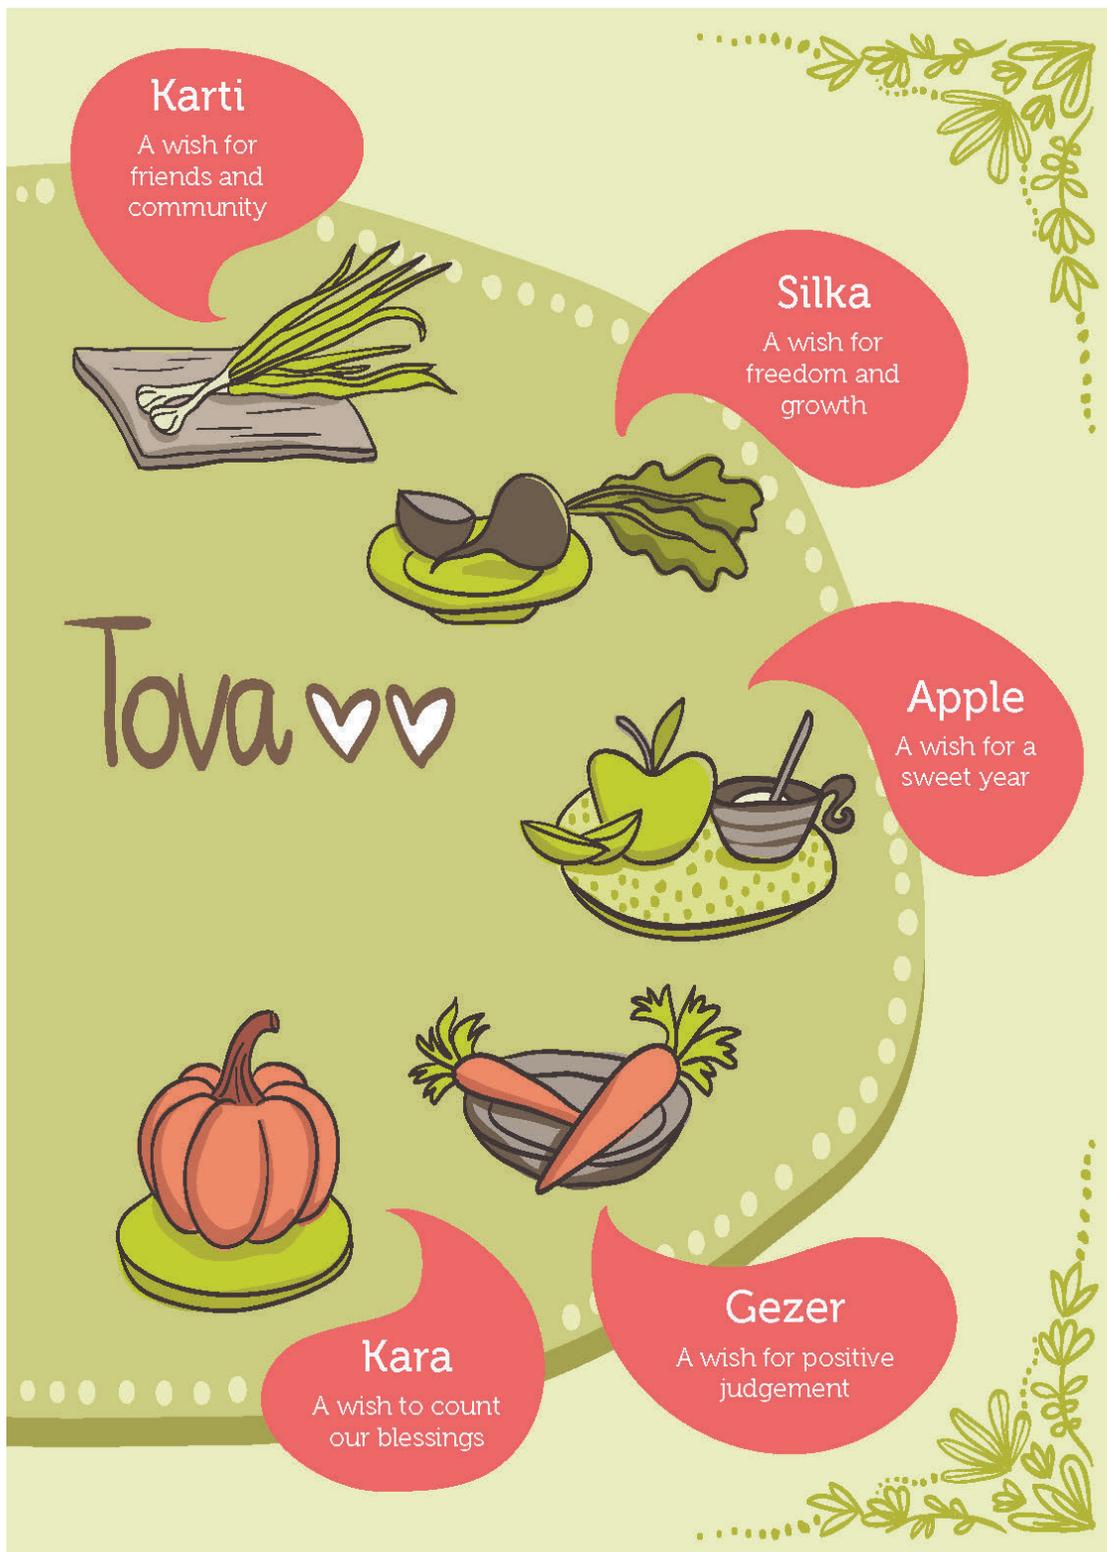

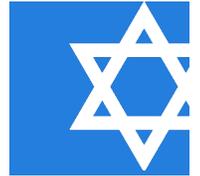

to eat symbolic foods, Simanim, at the Rosh HaShanah meal, accompanied by blessings and wishes for the upcoming year. You might add a few of these Simanim to your Rosh Hashanah celebration, or find them all and do a full Rosh Hashanah seder.

You can find the blessings and explanations of all these foods, along with directions for a complete Rosh Hashanah seder at:

Research Project

The More You Know!

High Holy Days Youth Research Project

Intended audience: 4-8th Grade

Purpose: Research a topic of your choice and “present” this topic to your family

Potential topics:

Strange Shofars: What animals can be used to make shofars? There are more than you might think!

Dressing in White: Many people traditionally dress in white on Yom Kippur. Can you find other holidays around the world where people dress in one special color? Are these holidays similar or different from Yom Kippur?

Important Apples: We celebrate Rosh Hashanah with apples and honey. Why do we use apples and not another type of fruit? Can you find out more about what apples symbolize?

The Head of WHICH Year?: Rosh Hashanah means “head of the year”, but it’s not the only “new year” in the Jewish calendar. Can you identify other “new years days” in the Jewish calendar and share why we have them?

Fasts and Faith: You probably know that adults traditionally fast on Yom Kippur. Many religions incorporate fast days, but it might surprise you to learn that what a fast means can be very different across faiths. Can you teach us what is the same and different about the fast of Yom Kippur (Judaism), the fast of Good Friday (Catholicism), and the fast of Ramadan (Islam)?

A Whale of a Tale!: On Yom Kippur we read the Book of Jonah, a story of repentance and forgiveness. Create your own retelling of the Book of Jonah and share with your family your own modern take on the story.

Guests of Honor: “Ushpizin” is Aramaic for “guests,” a reference to the seven supernal guests, “founding fathers” of the Jewish people, who come to visit us in the Sukkah. Who are the seven people you would invite into your Sukkah? Tell us a little bit about them!

Children's Felt Torahs

Felt Torahs:

As you celebrate Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur at home, every child has the opportunity to carry the Torah around their own sacred space (some might call it a living room)

You can make a fancy Torah here:

Paper Torahs:

Create something a bit more simple, with some paper towel rolls and paper: tinyurl.com/papertorahs

You can make a Torah you can write in:

Don't trim the tubes - make sure they are longer than the paper. Your child can draw a picture of their favorite Torah story, write Hebrew letters, or their favorite saying from the Torah in English. (Consider also decorating a box to be the Aron HaKodesh (Ark) for the Torah to live in).

Atonement Prayer

for the Littlest Kids

How might your family create your own Atonement Acrostic? Try it using your last name, or everyone's first names. The following prayer by Liora Brosbe teaches us to appreciate the mistakes we all make with love and humor.

An Atonement Prayer For The Littlest Kids

Asksed "are we there yet?" when we were told the timing five minutes ago.

Bit people, even those "love bites."

Called people names.

Dropped things on the floor, instead of putting them where they belong.

Expected to get our way immediately.

Fought with our classmates or siblings.

Grabbed, without asking first.

Hit, instead of using our words.

Interrupted when we can wait patiently or say "excuse me."

Jumped on furniture when it's against the rules or not safe.

Kicked people.

Laughed when someone was sad.

Made a mess and refused to help clean it up.

Said "No!" just for the sake of saying "no!"

Opened something without permission.

Did not say Please when asking for something.

Was not Quiet when someone was talking or sleeping or on the phone.

Ran inside a building or ran into a driveway without looking.

Didn't say "Sorry" when we hurt someone.

Took something without asking permission.

Left our Underwear on the floor instead of putting it where it belongs.

Visited someone's house, but did not act like a good guest.

Wrote on something that we're not supposed to write on: walls, books, floor, furniture.

Was eXhausted, but resisted bedtime.

Said "Yuck" to the Zucchini without trying it first.

Build Your Torah Scenes

with Legos & other items

Can you build it?

You have everything you need in your house to build High Holy Day Torah story scenes, symbols and traditions! Your legos can become a lulav! Egg cartons can be Jonah's whale! Recycled items you have around the house can team up with traditional building block toys to depict your family doing Tashlich!

Email pictures of your creations to Max Handelman:
mhandelman@ansheemet.org

The most innovative creation wins a private Zoom story time or challah class with Max!

Look around your home. Consider using items such as:

bottle caps	cardboard boxes and scraps	wood scraps
straws	corks	nuts and bolts
cardboard tubes	egg cartons	ceramic tiles
empty containers and bottles	rubber bands	paint sample cards

Don't forget to look around outside too:

rocks	pine cones	sticks, logs, tree cookies
leaves	seeds, dried beans	shells
fresh and dried flowers	pod, acorns, chestnuts	feathers

Of course, you can use traditional building materials too:

legos	blocks	tape
k'nex	magna-Tiles	glue

Go and build! Consider these ideas (but don't limit yourself to these):

Shofar: It's made from a ram's horn, but what can you build it from? Can you build your own shofar?

Traditional High Holy Day foods: Apples and Honey, round challah

Simanim (symbols): foods that are eaten on Rosh Hashanah to symbolize our hopes for a sweet New Year. These symbolic foods include leeks, pomegranate, gourds, dates, black eyed peas, apples & honey, beets, carrots and fish head (some use ram's head). For more info, see pages 11-12 of this booklet.

A scene from the story of Abraham and Isaac: A mountain? A father and son? A ram?

A scene from the story of Jonah: Can you build a whale? A ship? Jonah fleeing the city of Nineveh?

Tashlich: What does it look like when you go to do tashlich? Can you build fish (or birds) eating bread? Families gathered at a body of water?

Rosh Hashanah in the age of Covid: Can you build the scene of your family welcoming in the New Year THIS year?

Build A Sukkah!

A sukkah is a temporary structure that families build—and sometimes live in—during the holiday of Sukkot. This year, building and living in a sukkah could be a great way to add variety to your routine of social distancing!

The number of walls required is related to the forms of the Hebrew letters of the word sukkah. [Samech—four walls, kaf—three walls, hey—two and a half walls]. All of these [numbers of walls] are permissible. If you can use the back wall of a house or garage as one of the walls, do so.

The entire roof must be made of organic material, something that grew from the ground but is no longer attached to the ground. Remember to let the stars shine through! The sukkah should be attractive and welcoming. For decorations, everything is possible, from traditional fruit hanging to ushpizin posters to printed murals to strung macaroni, gourds, origami, paper chains, and so on.

One solid way to build a sukkah is with cement blocks, 2 x 4 standards, and improvised walls. Full directions can be found at: tinyurl.com/howtobuildasukkah

You could also build a sukkah with PVC pipes. Here are directions: tinyurl.com/pvcsukkah

Of course, you could always purchase a sukkah kit. Local Jewish bookstore Rosenblum's has several good choices: tinyurl.com/alljudaicasukkah OR ask Rabbi Google!

Closing Questions for Your family to ponder:

- Is there something that you wish you had done differently this past year?
What is something you're especially proud of from this past year?
- Describe one thing you'd like to achieve by this time next year.
Why is this important to you?
- Think about a major milestone that happened with your family this past year.
How has this affected you?
- Find these and additional questions at: www.doyou10q.com
You can keep a personal journal there, and look back on your answers from year to year!
